Hi Adam,

Yes, the group had a great time! For some of us it was a first time there and others have been there before. The leaders in our group all received positive feedback from the event. Kudos to Ashley for coordinating and answering our questions, I know we had a lot of them! All of the staff was friendly and professional, we will definitely recommend to some of the other groups at our site for team building.

Hi Ashley,

I just wanted to thank you and let you know that I received REALLY great feedback on the event today! 😊

Everyone had a great time and really enjoyed the extra touch of the podium, fun signs and announcer, etc. They also raved on how hospitable your team was!

We do these elite events every few months, so we will definitely be keeping your venue in mind.

Thanks, again for all of your help with everything! Please let me know if I need to pay for the food balance or if you need anything else.

Adam,

Thanks for reaching out, nice touch! My office had a blast at your facility. The product as you know is very fun and unique. On top of that, every single member of your staff we interacted with was friendly and went out of their way to accommodate us. As a group we do a few outings a year and RushHour is easily one of the top few we've ever done. Not only will we be coming back at some point, but we're telling friends/family the same. I've already booked a grand prix with my family on the 16th. Maybe I'll see you there.

Hope you and your team had a great Christmas, and a safe holiday season.

From someone in the hospitality business and owns a restaurant I take customer service pretty serious. Our staff knows we are successful cause we are very detailed in service. From The minute we were picked up to the minute the party ended you guys crushed it. It was organized, friendly, and super super awesome. Corbin was amazing on the tracks as well as the staff guiding us. Dude thank you so much it was awesome!!!!

Adam,

Thanks for the follow up. We all had a great time. We are a finicky bunch and I think everyone was pleased, even more than I expected. Thanks for the service and hospitality. Your crew was really great at making sure we all knew where to go and what to expect.

I myself was not expecting the soreness I experienced, but it was good sore.

I hope to bring my family in at some point and we will see if another business opportunity presents itself.

Thanks for the opportunity you provided and I wish you much success with the business.

Hi Ashley,

Just wanted to follow up and thank you and everyone on staff for a great night! Everyone had an absolute blast and we learned a lot about our team in terms of who has speed for testing our vehicle next semester.

The food was amazing, thank you especially to the restaurant staff for working with us and Duke's guidelines for meal preparation. The track staff also worked with us to set up a great championship race at the end of the night! We saw improvement with the entire team as far as lap times as the night went on and it made for great friendly competition.

We look forward to continuing our relationship with Rush Hour Karting next semester as tonight was a resounding success and everyone wants to come back very soon!

Hi Chris and Adam,
This is a tough email for me to send but I wanted to let you know that Logan has decided to opt out of RAPS. He's focused on racing quarter midgets and a lot of times that is going to involve travel which will make getting back into town for Sunday RAPS difficult. It was a really hard decision for him to make.

I can't thank you both enough for your time, patience, and efforts around Karting Camp and the RAPS league. Sending Logan to camp changed everything for him. He found his confidence at Rush Hour- and he carries that with him in racing and in school. He also found his passion- we're not sure what the future holds for him in racing but he wants to find out so we're going to support him in chasing his dream. We still plan to come in and race for fun from time to time and are looking forward to the new facility in Morrisville.

I hope this next season goes well and we'll see you soon!

Thanks,
Amanda

Caught in the turmoil: Go-kart track ready to get back to full throttle

Jul 3, 2020, 8:12am EDT

Editor's Note: Triangle Business Journal interviewed businesses around the area to check on their financial, operational and mental status as they approach the summer and fall months with the economy struggling to reopen with full force.

On March 30, Adam Saad decided to close the doors to his indoor go-kart race track and meeting facility in Garner after Gov. Roy Cooper issued a stay-at-home order for North Carolinians. But even before then, Saad's corporate business had all but dried up due to Covid-19 and the entity was operating cash-flow negative.

MEHMET DEMIRCI
Adam Saad of Rush Hour Karting.

Even though his business, Rush Hour Karting, was barely being kept alive by scant walk-in traffic in mid-March, Saad kept many of his employees busy by providing free lunches to area children in need (and their parents). That continued for 10 days and resulted in more than 700 meals being given away.

After the facility closed, Saad again pivoted. He deep-cleaned the facility and made updates and repairs, including remodeling the lobby and go-karting area.

"This cost me tens of thousands of dollars, but was worth it, considering how the world has changed and our new norms," Saad said.

Rush Hour Karting then received a $120,000 Paycheck Protection Program loan in mid-April, which was both a blessing and a curse, Saad said.

"It was actually a double-edged sword for us," he said. Being forced to initially use 75 percent of the money on payroll expenses, Saad said he was paying employees that didn't have enough work to do.

"Instead, I should have been using this money to pay the essential bills such as mortgage, utilities, notes payable, etc.," Saad adds. "And then ... they changed the rules, to make it more effective in the ways I was just describing. ... I just wasted away almost $100,000 that I should have allocated a lot differently."

Saad said two of his vendors reached out to him automatically to help out: his bank and his parts distributor. The bank deferred his mortgage payment on the facility for three months. His parts vendor gave him 50 percent off any parts he needed for one month.

Saad said he had to reach out to his other vendors to ask for extended terms, which most were willing to do.

Now, Rush Hour Karting is back open and doing "surprisingly well," Saad said. Corporate business is still nil, but walk-in traffic has been more than steady.

"Individually, and (with) small groups, my business is better than ever," Saad said.

Saad adds that he has been putting a renewed emphasis on cleanliness and sanitation for customers. He said he's buying more equipment to concentrate on keeping things clean than he ever has before.

That has led to different conversations with a few more of the entity's vendors. It has been more about cleaning and sanitizing and providing safety amenities to customers. For example, shifting from basic headsocks that go under racing helmets to full-faced headsocks with built-in faceshields.

Saad has confidence business will once again return to normal.

"It's about people's confidence in us retailers and businesses doing everything we can to keep them safe - and their desires to leave the house finally," he said.

Hi Adam,

Michael and I visited your facility Friday and kartered for several sessions. We brought our own gear but were impressed to see the professionalism of your staff when it came to wiping the karts down after every use, using face masks, plexiglass shields and overall precautions. We had a great time and felt far more safe than going to the grocery store. I am sure that Kate and I agree that this is a more than safe opportunity for Michael to do what he enjoys in the company of other kids while being in a safe environment. You have been very transparent and accommodating which is very much appreciated. Michael is looking forward to the experience and all that he may learn.

TBJ Plus: Triangle biz hands out nearly 700 meals

PIVOTING TO FIGHT HUNGER: Amidst the COVID-19 fallout that continues to unfold, TBJ Plus is hearing a lot of positive news about companies pivoting their business models to help those in need. Such is the case at Garner's Rush Hour Karting.

When the pandemic started affecting the day-to-day operations of the indoor go-kart track, owner Adam Saad and his staff started providing free lunches to children. Before the two-week effort wrapped up on March 28 after supplies ran out, Saad and his team were able to distribute nearly 700 meals.

“Every person that came here has been so thrilled and happy, and we even fed the parents,” Saad says. “Some people picked up 10 or more plates. We don’t question anyone, just provide a hot meal, as many as they want! The smiles on their faces when they leave, really does mean the world to me.”

Saad had to close up shop March 30 due to the governor’s stay-at-home order, but he’s keeping his full-time staff on the payroll, he says, adding that he will use this closure to do some deep cleaning and make repairs to the facility.

***During the Pandemic outbreak of COVID-19 (Corona Virus), All schools were shut down. Which meant thousands of kids that were used to getting free or reduced lunches, received no food.

So, Rush Hour stepped up, and served FREE lunches to anyone that called, and as many plates as they needed, with no questions asked.

IN the 2 weeks of March 17th to March 27th, RH gave away about 700 meals to families in need.*****

Hello Adam

We had a blast during our Go-Kart experience. Everyone loved it with the exception of one individual who felt claustrophobic with the helmet on to continue (her issues not yours). Other than that the experience was great and went very smoothly. We will definitely be back and will recommend this activity to our other colleagues.

Thanks have a great day!

Thank you so so much for showing my team and me such a good time at Rush Hour this afternoon. We loved hanging out there, and it was really cool to see you in your element! Those go karts are FAST...and I thought I was flying the whole time and still came in last so there's no telling how fast my friends were going that passed me. Haha.

Seriously thank you so much. You were so kind to share your craft with us...especially without any notice from me ahead of time. (Again, sorry about that!) I've kept your business card and I look forward to telling my friends and family that they have to come check it out soon.

You are awesome, Adam.

Thanks again.

I'm so bummed, I was out on vacation and did not get to attend the event. I heard from so many people how much fun they had and they were very happy they went with my recommendation for this event. They shared pictures from the event at a leadership meeting, so not only did they tell me they shared with our global leaders around the country what fun WE had.

One of my leaders was bummed he couldn't drink and drive....I gave him a stern look and said – "That is the only feedback?....but you understand why – right!?"

Again, I heard nothing but great feedback. Appreciate the follow up and we will definitely keep ya'll in mind for the next gathering!

REACH is a child outreach program at Passage Home that connects children and families who have experienced homelessness with the resources they need to support a healthy development. Half of all proceeds from the event will go to support REACH.

RHK Raised $2,150 for REACH.

From: Jennifer Tisdale (Passage Home)

Sent: Thursday, May 23, 2019 2:48 PM

Hi Adam! I just wanted to say thank you again so much for all your support of REACH and what we do! We raised $2,830 which is going to help us provide complete wrap around services for 10 children experiencing homelessness for one year. This means connecting them to child care, help with all their educational, mental health and medical needs, summer camp and afterschool care, and programs such as bullying workshops, art therapy and more. We work really hard to help get them to better places and we are grateful for your support in enabling us to do just that!

Could you do me a favor and email me some of the photos from last night that we can put on social media?

Thank you again so much!

I'd like to echo Jenn's thanks to you. You have a big heart and it was readily apparent last night. You have an incredible group of folks working with you too. You all really went the distance to make sure the evening was a success. We are so grateful!

We intend on hanging up one of the posters from the Rush Hour Karting event in our little REACH house where Jenn and Sha'Tyra are located. It will be an ongoing reminder of your generosity!

All the best to you and your staff!

We had a blast Adam, have recommended to other managers at the company. Keep up the good work.

Two favorite things:

- split times on the projector so you know your last split
- lockers before you go to grab a helmet so you can stow phones, keys, wallets, safely

We all had a blast! I'm so glad everyone was able to participate in the race. The outing is still the talk around the hotel. This event has definitely had a positive impact our team relationships – and I hear you may have had a couple people return since we were there.

Hi Adam,

Thanks so much for the follow up. We had a great time. People are still talking about it. A couple of people including myself, were sore the next day. The whole event was a great team building experience from start to finish. The bus was great because it made a way for the whole team to participate and stay for the entire event, which usually doesn't happen. Now I have to try to find a way to top this event for our next meeting which will be in Columbia.

I'm sure we will be back again. I personally would like to bring my family. My teenage stepsons would love it.

Thank you so much for the fun and photos and please give a special thanks to your mother for the food. It was exceptionally good.

It is based on the conviction that young people - if they are reached early enough - can develop strong positive attitudes towards police officers in their journey through life toward the goal of maturity and good citizenship. Hi, Adam.

Sorry for this reply being so delayed. We actually had a *great* time at Rush Hour. This was my second corporate event I've set up with you guys, (the first one since I've worked at Untappd, though) and both were very well worth it. In both cases, we were all indeed a bit (quite a bit, in fact) sore that next day.

We actually have a Sales Group from Untappd HQ coming up from Wilmington to do their team event this week at Rush Hour. I found out about it today, and that's what reminded me that I still owed you this reply. Either way, thanks for a great Engineering team event. I know the Sales team will have a great time this week for theirs. Let me know if you have any questions for me, too.

Hello Adam,

I am very pleased to inform you that my group had a blast! As a matter of fact, they were still talking about the event a week later – so you must be doing something right at Rush Hour Karting.

Thanks for all your hard work accommodating a group that size with all their individualized lunch orders.

I am sorry that I did not get a chance to make it to the event as I was looking forward to meeting you. Nonetheless, it was a pleasure working with you via email and phone.

Kind Regards,

My trade organization (AMA Triangle) held a monthly board meeting in the restaurant, followed by a social event for the wider membership. The folks at Rush Hour Karting were top-notch. Very attentive, friendly, accommodating and helpful. They provided food for the meeting and social, as well as beer at their bar for the social. And the racing! That was the cherry on top! Exhilarating, as well as safe. Highly recommend Rush Hour for team building events, corporate meetings, and birthday and other parties. I will definitely return!

On behalf of Allscripts, we can't thank you enough for your excellent service during our team building exercise. You and your staff were pleasant, informative, hysterical and completely helpful. Everyone had a fantastic time and we all can't thank you enough for your helpfulness with everything.

On a personal note, I wanted to call out that I really appreciated that you offered the bus to and from your facility. In the midst of planning, there are a lot of balls in the air and having this benefit was what set Rush Hour apart from other facilities. In addition, thank you for your kindness and concern about Theresa. She's ok and she's bounced back to her bubbly personality, but it was your team that showed a genuine appreciation for the severity of the situation.

Thanks again for everything and we hope to see you soon!

Adam,

Good Morning!

I have wanted to get back with you to let you know how much out team enjoyed the outing. They all seemed to totally enjoy it and had a great time. And – yes – next time I do want to come! ☺

The very next day I had 2 managers want to know more about your programs/specials and possibly thinking about doing this with their teams too!

A couple of comments have been shared:

I thought the event was perfect. There was competitiveness, but also cheering for each other as well. The trophies were cool (except that I didn't win!). The staff at Rush Hour Karting were enthusiastic and it was nice that we didn't have to go to another place to eat after.

Thank you to both you and Bruce for organizing and allowing us to do this. I was not feeling well going into it that day, but in the end was so glad I attended.

I enjoyed it. It was way more challenging that I ever anticipated. I enjoy hanging with my teammates outside of the office and trying to get to know folks a little better, without work hanging over us.

One point of recommendation: We should have eaten first. I think we were all starving by the time we finished the races. Thank you,

Thanks again for the support and organization of your program. You made this very easy for me to plan for my team. Have an awesome week!

RushHour's Great Dane mascot named Freud passed away today! Just 15 months old, became big part of the RushHour Karting scene. Customers asked for him by name and the staff loved him like part of the team. Freud you will be missed, more than you know.

This morning we lost a part of RushHour's little family. He was once the littlest one of them all then became the biggest one of us all. From chewing up our nice relaxing couch in the office, to only drinking out of the water fountain, taking big dumps on the track "his favorite", taking peoples head socks from their hands, playing fetch like a champ, always being in the way, and "my favorite" sneaking into the restaurant to eat peoples food! It seems we all grew to love him and loved to have him around us. He became a big part of our daily lives here the last 16 months and became a good friend. Im gonna miss you you big dummy "pretty boy" Freud

Hello Adam,

We had a BALL! It was a little bit warm. We might have cooled off a little if we took a break. Maybe between the qualifying race and the final race, but it didn't stop us from having fun. We look forward to coming again in the near future, either as a company or family event.

Happy Racer,

Everything last night was outstanding. We were very pleased with the service from your team. All of my guests had drinks and the guys working the carts were outstanding as well. We were pleased with the food as well although I did learn that people were so excited racing that many of them didn't eat. It must have been the adrenalin rush!

My only suggestion would be mentioning that no one could race with open toed shoes, but it was great that you had tennis shoes available so we didn't have any issues.

Adam,

We had an amazing time. You and your staff were first class all the way. I have told so many people about how easy it was to have a team meeting/team building event at Rush Hour. From the meeting room, to the lunch to the racing you made the whole experience easy and fun.

Much appreciated.

Hi Adam, So funny I just finished writing you a nice letter. And then I saw this email. Yes we all had a great time. Everything was wonderful. It was so nice seeing everyone open up and just have fun. Even the ones who didn't ride the karts had a great time watching and laughing at their peers. The food was great. Please tell Magda that she did a superb job. We really enjoyed the deserts. Also please tell your staff that we said thank you for a great time. It was a fun night and the office was a buzz the next couple of days after. We will definitely be coming back. I really don't have any complaints your whole staff did a great job. Thanks again for a great night. We will be back!!

I am sure I will be using your facility for future B-day parties and other entertainment purposes. Your staff should be commended for doing such a fine job. Thank you for having the Netsertive Automotive team out for a day of racing and team-building. The entire week of training was a success as we built it all around a "racing" theme. I found it to be "money well spent". Your team was a pleasure to work with both inside and track-side. Please feel free to use me as a reference with companies who are looking to get their employees out for a day of fun and competition. Rush Hour Karting is a must for any sales team outing!

SMALL BUSINESS PROFILE

RUSH HOUR KARTING

Vroom! Vroom! Through good and tough times, karts roar on

By Dale Gibson
Reporter email: dgibson@bizjournals.com
Twitter: @TriBizME

GARNER – When Adam Saad says the economy is coming back, people should listen.

He knows by experience. His business was driven into the pits during the depths of the Great Recession. Operators of similar businesses in other markets didn't make it. He did, and business is solid again.

"I know that when people spend their money with us, the economy is coming back," says Saad, the point man in a three-person partnership that has owned and operated Rush Hour Karting, an indoor, high-speed, competitive go-kart track that's tucked away along a country road somewhere between where Garner ends and Clayton begins.

The location is not ideal, Saad concedes, but there was a reason. He got a deal on the land from a family friend to build the 50,000-square-foot structure that houses not only the kart track but also a small restaurant, a gift shop, a game room, a briefing room for wannabe Jeff Gordons and even a conference room for corporate functions.

"It would have cost too much if we had put it in a prime-time location," Saad says of the spot chosen for the business.

So it's been a cobbled-together game of guerilla and social marketing that Saad – "He's a workaholic," says brother and co-owner Tamer Saad – has fashioned to keep would-be Danica Patricks streaming in the door. And some of it has been downright creative: He made a buy with Groupon to offer specials on races at the track, and then convinced the folks at Groupon to sponsor 15 karts. He also does networking, keeps in touch with repeat drivers via email, drops cards at trade shows, and the like.

Adam feels the company now has good traction and has even begun giving some thought to perhaps building a second track, but that's in the very early stages. Rush Hour celebrated its seventh birthday on Dec. 7, provides jobs for 16 and last year topped $1 million in revenue for the first time.

It's a lot of work for the Saads and their cousin Sherif Matta, the other partner and a cousin who came up with the idea for the track. But while Sherif was the inspiration, Adam proved to be the one to execute the plan. At the time, he was working in the family business, Garner TV and Appliance, but took time to research the karting business.

One factor held heavy sway over the trio's ultimate decision to build and open the track: Group sales to corporations looking for team-building experiences could be a steady source of income. And that's the way it's worked out, with about a third of Rush Hour Karting's sales coming from corporations and the rest from what Adam calls "arrive and drive" customers.

While appearing to be little more than a warehouse on the outside, the facility is impressive on the inside. The serpentine track dominates the building, offering hairpin turns, virtual U-turns and tempting straightaways. A system of huge fans controlled by carbon monoxide detectors sucks fumes out of the building.

Thanks to transponders in the karts, drivers can check where they stand in relation to their competitors on huge TV screens that also reveal the time it takes to cover one lap. On a recent day, the best time turned in was 30.255 seconds, the worst was 34.105 seconds. (The best yours truly could muster was 41.495 seconds.)

Running this business is not cheap. A single heavy-duty kart equipped for racing with four-point driver straps and wrap-around bumpers costs $8,000, and Rush Hour has 15 of them for adults, along with eight kiddie karts.

And no foolishness is allowed. Remember that briefing room? The biggest sign in it says, "No Bumping." Three employees roam the track medians during race time, flags in hand, ready to pull guilty Jimmy Johnsons from the competition – after a warning.

Another major expense is insurance to cover potential accidents. There's never been a claim on that insurance from the kart driving. "The only claim was a for a bump-up in the parking lot," Adam says.

As for free time, the owners might spend some of that on the track, where Adam says cousin Sherif is a great racer, while "I'm terrible." But time off is scant for the trio – one of whom is always on site. Rush Hour Racing is open 363 days a year – closed only on Christmas Eve and Christmas Day.

"We'd do a great business on that days," says Adam. "But we've got to get a break sometime."

I came in I think 6-7 place?? I don't remember. I was more concerned making sure everyone had what they needed and trying to start conversations. Haha! Our group doesn't get together much outside of work so the wives and girlfriends didn't really know one another even though I knew all of them. They loosened up after about an hour and your staff was very sweet in taking our company photo and making sure all was well!

We appreciate you guys for the service you provide. My whole family cam out for valentines night fun. My wife and 8 yr old raced each other, even though they were not supposed too (thanks for rule bend.) my 5 yr old girl played video games and we ate a big pizza at Hectors. The owner of Hectors is the nice guy! He even cut up my daughters pizza for her. Good times. Dropped about $130, but didn't mind.

Hello Adam,

Our team had a great time go karting! Your location was easy to get to, and coordinating our team event with you was easy and painless.

Each of us enjoyed our turn on the track, and we left with excellent stories to discuss and retell to other coworkers. Thank goodness our manager finished in First Place! We will definitely recommend Rush Hour Karting!

Thank you to YOU and the staff members that contributed to our successful event!

Thank you, Tamer took care of us. Your team did a good job of managing the racing process as well as providing the food and beverages. I think my VP was impressed and I know we have a lot more people over here. I hope more teams will try this out. I will add that I took the very last car in the field, team 10, thinking a team at the front would win. But I guess the guys I picked were good drivers and I think our car was pretty fast (we didn't have the fastest lap though). We went from 10th to 3rd after the first driver, then 3rd to 1st after the second driver gave me the car. So we then were able to put a lap on the field, then we put two laps by the end of the race. Some of my management peers felt like I got the "hot" car as result of me booking the event, so that added to the fun. ☺

Thank you again.

The Rush Hour karts are challenging enough to bring out the competitive spirit of the managers and executives who attended and give everyone a bit of a workout.

Our special event at Rush Hours has be the sole topic of conversation this morning "around the water cooler". I have had several people tell me they will return on their own to race again soon. Adam,
Thank you for contacting me. I was able to make it out last Thursday. A teller from my branch came with me to the event. We both greatly enjoyed everything that was there. The food was spectacular as well as the new meeting room and racing. That, however, was not my first time at Rush Hour. Last year, a company I was working for had their Christmas party there. I must say that the food was considerably better this visit. After talking a bit with the bartender, she mentioned that there was a recent change in ownership. It appears to me that you all are doing a fantastic job there and look forward to letting everyone know how great your place is. Thanks again for a great evening,

Adam,

I've spoken with my VP of Marketing and I think I've got her convinced we should start with a customer or employee appreciation event out there. I'll see what we can get scheduled over the next couple months.

We had a great time last night. Being that the Hosted Solutions team won, made it that much better!! 😊

I'm addicted man! I'm checking into the leagues out there. You may be seeing more of me that you want!!

I'll also get the word out to my customers and contacts. Now that you've added the meeting room, it allows companies to legitimately hold "business" meetings and of course, that helps with justifying tax right offs etc. I think you've got a great thing going and we look forward to continuing to participate.

Thanks again for your hospitality.

Adam-

We did have a great time and much conversation around the 'watercooler' at work the next day! This was the second time that I have arranged a group event for some folks from CARQUEST. I'm sure that there will be another opportunity for an event...

Actually, I do have some feedback. One, we like the improvements that have been made since last time we were there. The banners and advertising around the track really add to the 'racetrack' atmosphere. Second, it's great that you have Cinelli's there now for dining options!

We love the Grand Prix format and the amount of racing that provides us and don't want to change that.

I'm sure we will see you again!
Thanks.

Thanks Adam. Everyone enjoyed the experience. Of course, I organized, and then was sick and unable to attend. I'll make a trip out at some point in the future. Again, everyone enjoyed the experience and was a topic of conversation for the rest of the week.

Thanks Adam, we had a BLAST! We're still talking about it in meetings© Hey, I'm planning an outing for some of the CBC females in May. We're coming over to ride on ladies nite! Thanks again for the stellar service. We shall return. All the best, Loretta

"Rush Hour Karting is nothing short of awesome. I've been a couple times now and every time is gets more fun! After riding their karts I'll never go back to the "kiddie" ones that other places have. It's the perfect place to have a corporate event and let off a little steam afterwards...and the food at Cinelli's is really good too!"

Sherif, on behalf of my whole group, I want to thank you for a wonderful adventure last Friday. We are planning to stop by every quarter and race. See you in two months.

"You have not lived if you have not experienced the "Rush" from Rush Hour Karting. If you are looking for a team building event that is different or if you just have a group going out for an evening of fun I would highly recommend you try Rush Hour Karting. Adam is the perfect host and I am confident that you will come away saying that it was an experience unlike anything which you experience before."

Adam,

It was a great time!! I can't believe how physical it was. 35 minutes in those carts did me in for 2 days now. I am ready to hop right back in now though.

I know for one I will be back soon with my son.
